

2006-2007 Clayton Torch Fund Manager Profiles

Pramook Tony Malasitt

After graduating from Chulalongkorn University, Bangkok, Thailand, Tony spent two years working as an equity analyst at Hunters Investment Limited, a newly-setup private equity investment Company in Thailand. While working at Hunters, he helped the company start its operation and involved in many investment opportunities. Because of his enthusiasm in the stock market, with many analysts meetings and company visits, he honed his investment skill and became proficient in various business sectors. He is a strong believer in value investing. Tony determines to use his knowledge and experience to build up his career in Wall Street. His MBA concentration is Finance.

Amit Sawhney

Amit has an undergraduate degree in Textile Chemistry and Polymer Engineering from India. He has a graduate degree in engineering from the University of Massachusetts (UMASS). He also holds a patent on 'smart textiles' that he developed in his labs at UMASS. During his undergraduate education he interned with some of the best chemical companies in India. After his graduation from UMASS, he worked as a 'Research Associate' in state labs of Massachusetts. Throughout his career, so far, he has witnessed operations of both start-ups and of multinational corporations. He intends to make a career in Investment banking.

Yat H. Tsoi

Yat is originally from Hong Kong, one of world class financial centers in Asia. At the University of Tennessee, he received a bachelor's degree in Logistics and International Business. Currently, he is working on his MBA with a finance major while in the pursuit of his CFA certificate. His enthusiasm for finance is certain, and he works hard to make a difference. Additionally, his logistics background and sales experience in different industries have definitely broadened his view of consumer markets, enhanced his understanding of customer values, and developed his sensitivity to rapidly changing environments.

Ryan Gregory Warren

Ryan Gregory Warren is a graduate from The University of Tennessee where he majored in finance. Professionally, he has worked with Northwestern Mutual Financial Network and Wachovia Securities where he gained invaluable experience in the financial planning industry. As a portfolio manager for the Clayton Torch Fund, Ryan anticipates learning how to more effectively manage funds for high net worth clients. After completing his MBA in December of 2007, Ryan will pursue a degree through the Masters of Accountancy Program at the University of Tennessee in order to prepare for the CPA and CFP Exams.